My Future

31. If you were asked to lead Sample Company, what is one thing you would do to make Sample Company an even better place to work?
What is an Employee Value Proposition (EVP)?

EVP is the collection of benefits an employee receives from an organization in exchange for the employee’s work.

EVP Addresses Four Key Questions:

1. What does it take to attract the right people?
2. What does it take to retain these people?
3. What does it take to motivate your people?
4. What is your company’s brand?

Employee Value Proposition Includes:

- Demographic profile of your workforce
- Formal benefits
- Company culture, vision, mission, values
- Employee engagement

Based on the results from an employee value proposition survey, organizations can predict what different groups of employees want to remain with the company and engage in their work.
Results from an Employee Value Proposition Survey

An employee value proposition survey is used to create a segmentation report that shows profiles of different employee types based on demographics, interests, and career goals.

Profile 1
This segment is largely attracted with the work they will be doing. Members of this segment have more tenure than other segments within the company. They stay with the company because they love living in the area, and they have passion for the industry.

- 56% advanced degrees
- 75% female
- Average tenure greater than 10 years

Profile 2
This segment is largely attracted with base pay. Members of this segment have less tenure than other segments within the company. They stay with the company because they like the benefits and perks, and they enjoy the people they work with.

- 41% advanced degrees
- 82% male
- Average tenure: 3-5 years

Profile 3
This segment is largely attracted with schedule flexibility. Members of this segment work part-time while attending school. They stay with the company because they love living in the area, and they have passion for the industry.

- Mostly students or working mothers
- 92% female
- Average weekly hours: 15

Profile 4
This segment is largely attracted with base pay. Members of this segment are also attracted to the reputation and stability of the company. They stay with the company because they like the work they do and see career growth opportunities.

- 77% advanced degrees
- 82% male
- Management Positions
How to Leverage Your Employee Value Proposition

ATTRACTION
Identify candidates that fit the organization’s employee value proposition based on benefits they are seeking through employment.

RETENTION
Retain individuals who currently work in the organization by adding to the value proposition already offered.

ENGAGEMENT
Understand benefits sought that go beyond contractual elements of the employee value proposition, which can serve as motivating and engaging factors.
